

NEW ZEALAND COLLEGE OF MIDWIVES (INC)

Consensus Statement Normal Birth

Ratified at the Annual General Meeting, October, 2006
References updated July 2009

- The New Zealand College of Midwives is committed to protecting, promoting and supporting normal birth.
- NZCOM is concerned with the rising level of unnecessary intervention occurring in childbirth in New Zealand.
- The underlying assumption in supporting normal birth is:

Normal birth provides the most favourable outcome in terms of physical and emotional wellbeing to the majority of women and their babies. The majority of women, where possible, wish to give birth to their babies normally.

- When keeping birth normal, midwifery care needs to be informed by evidence, and be consistent with the Midwifery Scope of Practice, Competencies and information contained within the Midwives Handbook for Practice (2005).
- Every action the midwife makes, from her first interaction with the woman, needs to support keeping birth normal thereby supporting the normal cascade that occurs when labour and birth happen physiologically. Any and every interaction / decision affects this natural cascade in a positive or negative way
- This statement is supported further by the Collaborative Statement on Home Birth and Primary Birth Units:

“Women who are experiencing normal pregnancies should be offered the option and encouraged to give birth in primary maternity facilities or at home. The evidence clearly demonstrates that women who receive effective antenatal care and are assessed to be at low risk for complications, will give birth to healthy babies and need fewer interventions if they are supported to give birth in a primary maternity unit or at home.”

Endorsed by:

Home Birth Aotearoa
Federation of Women's Health Councils Aotearoa NZ
Trauma and Birth Stress
Post-natal Psychosis Support Group
Women's Health Action
Community Birth Services Trust
Nga Maia O Aotearoa Me Te Waipounamu
Birthcare Auckland Ltd and Birthcare Huntley Ltd
Midwifery and Maternity Provider Organisation (MMPO)
Midwifery Employee Representation & Advisory Services (MERAS)

MAMA Ltd
La Leche League
Maternity Services Consumer Council
Parents Centre New Zealand
Friends of Rangiora Hospital
The College of Nurses Aotearoa NZ (Inc)
New Zealand College of Midwives
The New Zealand Nurses Organisation
Pregnancy Help

Rationale for this statement

Midwives:

- are the health professionals with a primary role in promoting and protecting the normal process of pregnancy and childbirth
- are committed to the health and well-being of women and acknowledge that normal birth has health benefits for the majority of women and their babies
- have a responsibility to provide evidence-based research and culturally appropriate information about birthing that supports women to birth normally
- have a responsibility to protect and support the woman to birth normally
- support the “Ten World Health Organisation Principles of Perinatal Care”

References:

Title A Comparison of partnership caseload midwifery care with conventional team midwifery care: labour and birth outcomes

Author: Yvonne Benjamin, Denis Walsh and Nick Taub. 2001

Source: Midwifery (2001) 17, 234-240 www.ideallibrary.com

Title: Appropriate perinatal technology: a World Health Organisation perspective

Author: Chalmers, B. Mangiaterra, V.

Source : cited in MIDIRS Midwifery Digest March 2002, 130

<http://www.rcmnormalbirth.net/>

Title: Primary maternity facilities: are they endangered species?

Author: Hendry, C. 2005

Source: New Zealand College of Midwives Midwifery News, 39, 25.

Title Continuity of caregivers for care during pregnancy and childbirth

Author: E D Hodnett

Source: The Cochrane Database of Systematic Reviews 2000, Issue 11, Art. No.:

CD000062.DOI:10.1002/14651858.CD000062.

www.mrw.interscience.wiley.com

Title: Homebirth

Author: International Confederation of Midwives, 2005

Source: www.internationalmidwives.org

Title Place of birth

Author: International Confederation of Midwives, 2005

Source: www.internationalmidwives.org

Title Outcomes of planned home births versus planned hospital births after regulation of midwifery in British Columbia

Author: Janssen Patricia A, Lee SK, Ryan EM, Etches DJ, Farquharson DF, Peacode D, Klein MC. 2002. Canadian Medical Association Journal:

166 (3)

Source: www.cmaj.ca

Title: Outcomes of planned home births with certified professional midwives: large prospective study in North America.

Author: Johnson, K. 2005, June

Source: bmj.com, 330 (1416). Retrieved August 2, 2005 from http://bmj.bmjournals.com/cgi/reprint_abr/330/7505/1416

Title: Outcomes of Free-Standing Midwife-Led Birth Centers: A Structured Review

Author: Walsh, D. Downe, S. 2004

Source: Birth 31:3 222-229

Title: Appropriate use of Intervention in Childbirth

Author: ICM, 2005

Source: <http://www.internationalmidwives>

Title: Keeping Birth Normal

Author: ICM, 2008

Source: <http://www.internationalmidwives>

The purpose of New Zealand College of Midwives Consensus Statements is to provide women, midwives and the maternity services with the profession's position on any given situation. The guidelines are designed to educate and support best practice.
All position statements are regularly reviewed and updated in line with evidence-based practice.