

Consensus Statement: Prescribing of Drugs Unapproved for use in Maternity Care or for the Newborn

The New Zealand College of Midwives position is that drugs that are unapproved for use in maternity care or for the newborn should not be promoted or prescribed by a midwife on her own responsibility.

It is recognised that some unapproved drugs are used in the secondary and tertiary hospital setting. These drugs should be prescribed by a doctor following a comprehensive assessment and diagnosis of the woman and with her informed consent. Midwives may then be required to administer unapproved drugs as a delegated responsibility including during an obstetric emergency in the community.

Rationale:

- There is universal concern that sufficient information is provided regarding the use of unapproved medications in maternity for women to be able to give informed consent.
- Drugs used in maternity care need to be evidence based and as safe and effective as possible for the treatment of prescribed conditions.
- Midwives scope of practice includes the promotion of evidence based care.
- Prescribing drugs on their own responsibility, that are approved for use during pregnancy, labour, birth and in the postnatal period, is a competency of a practicing midwife.
